The grad school application essay—letter of intent, personal statement, statement of purpose, etc.—is your chance to breathe some life and personality into your application. But unlike your undergraduate essay, where you might've offered a quippy story, your grad school application essay should be more focused on your academic and professional goals and why grad school is essential to achieving them. It should also give the admission committee a good sense of who you are and what you ...

How to Write Your Grad School Application Essay ...

Some graduate programs will ask you to write an additional essay about an issue within your chosen field. However, your personal statement should be about you as an individual. Write about issues only if they relate specifically to your personal experiences. For example, 'In Africa, a child dies every minute.

Write a Graduate School Essay that Will Knock Their Socks Off

1. Don't become a graduate school essay cliché. Grad school essays may require you to answer a specific question (i.e., Discuss a piece of literature that changed your life.); ask you for a general statement (Tell us about yourself.); or about your goals (What do you hope your graduate studies will help you achieve?).

6 Tips for Writing a Killer Grad School Application Essay ...

The first will make your writing banal; the second is likely to make you stand out in a bad way. Appropriate Boundaries. While you can be more personal in a personal statement than in a statement of purpose, it's important to maintain appropriate boundaries in your writing.

3 Successful Graduate School Personal Statement Examples • Pr

Some programs will ask you to write a single essay covering both your personal background and what you wish to study in graduate school. Others, however, will require both a personal statement and a statement of purpose . The personal statement should focus on you and your background, while the statement of purpose should focus on your research or what you plan to study in graduate school.

How to Write a Personal Statement for Graduate School

A writing sample for graduate school primarily serves an evidential function: its purpose is to give evidence of your qualifications to enter graduate school at the program you're applying to. Of course the central way it does so is by being a good piece of philosophical writing, and we'll spend a bunch of time on that below.
