Bachelor Thesis from the year 2016 in the subject Pedagogy - The Teacher, Educational Leadership, grade: 8, University of Latvia, language: English, abstract: The Diploma Paper explores techniques to teach American culture in English lessons in Grade 11. The author believes that teaching American culture, especially in the 21st century, is of high importance. The chosen research method was a case study in a Riga School. Interviews, questionnaire, students' portfolios and feedback were chosen as data collection methods. The data reflect that the use of the teaching techniques enhanced students' intercultural skills. American culture contributed to Grade 11 students' ability to draw connections among ideas, justify a stand or decision as well as produce a new original work or point of view. Even though the research showed beneficial results, the author suggests carrying out further research to gather more data on the topic in other age groups.

Health and quality of life are vital indicators of societal functioning. The way a society distributes resources among its population reveals much about the society itself. This unique volume unites readings that explore the integral link between quality of life and public policy choices. It begins with individual perspectives on health promotion and quality of life that provide a conceptual basis for determining an individual's or community's standard, then moves on to community and policy perspectives. The middle section introduces a political economy framework and the social determinants of health concept to illustrate how societies differ in their willingness to support quality of life and health. Later chapters examine vulnerable populations: Indigenous communities, persons with disabilities, women, and radicalised and immigrant communities. The book concludes with suggestions for bringing together the agendas of health promotion, quality of life, and the social determinants of health. It provides an up-to-date analysis of the barriers facing those attempting to improve quality of life and health, as well as the means to accomplish these goals.
