The earliest steam powered fishing boats first appeared in the 1890s and used the trawl system of fishing as well as lines and drift nets. These were large boats, usually 80-90 feet (24-27 m) in length with a beam of around 20 feet (6.1 m). They weighed 40-50 tons and travelled at 9-11 knots (17-20 km/h; 10-13 mph).

Over the years, the main fishing methods of the boats that fished from Mallaig, and the catches they landed, have been subject to considerable change. Situated at the south-end of the Minch, where a relatively small natural inner harbour provided valuable shelter, for decades the port was mainly used by a generally smaller class of vessel, landing a seasonal mix of pelagic and demersal fish.
